Slope Radio Heads Uphill

eClips spoke with Alex Zahn, co-founder of Slope Radio, about a year ago. During that interview, Zahn shared thoughts on the challenges of being a young entrepreneur and establishing a student-run radio station.

As of today, September 10, 2007, things became more interesting for these student entrepreneurs. Slope Radio is now Slope Media Group (SMG), Cornell's first comprehensive, student-run multimedia organization, offering 24-hour television, international programming, sports coverage and magazine publishing.

To read more about this recent development, see the Cornell Chronicle article on the SMG.
